Attention all Students!

Here's an opportunity open to all research trainees in the medical center to be involved in a College of Medicine promotional video.

Between now and July 31, our videography team at Media Source will be on campus to shoot video of student activities going on right now around the Medical Center - one of those is research. We are looking for students who would be interesting in posing for some video shots of you working in one of the labs in the BRT with several other researchers in the background. The shots will be used as a backdrop for the video used in recruiting students to the college. Open to trainees who are currently working in a lab or who have access to a lab and wouldn't mind helping to stage. For more information or to sign up, email Amy Lahmers at amy.lahmers@osumc.edu by Weds, July 15.

Other Information

R01 Postdoc Opening

Dr. Jeff MacKeigan, an Associate Professor at Van Andel Research Institute in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Dr. MacKeigan's lab currently has an opening for a postdoctoral fellow. They are looking for an upcoming or recent Ph.D. graduate with experience in flow cytometry, microscopy, and cell culture. The postdoc would work closely with Dr. MacKeigan and mathematicians on a computational model of autophagy in lung cancer. For more information, see position description and benefits details.
