The faculty members honored with the Courage to Teach designation are faculty committed to the humanistic teaching of the medical school curriculum. They love to teach and they enjoy working with emerging physicians.

Can you identify the Courage to Teach faculty member from the description on the following slides?
Almost became a social studies teacher before committing to a life in medicine.

Loves telling stories of the farm, especially if he can artfully gross out those around him.

His family taught him the importance of being respectful and taking the time to do the things that give life meaning and purpose.

Happiest when he is teaching.

Keep reading to find out who has the “Courage to Teach” ...
Believes there is intrinsic value in everyone, even in the worst of circumstances.

Rediscovered his passion for teaching during his internship.

Loves spending time with his two children, reading, and gardening.

Hint: Serves as an Associate Dean for the College of Medicine.

Keep reading to find out who has the “Courage to Teach” ...
Dan Clinchot, MD
Associate Dean for Medical Education