The faculty members honored with the Courage to Teach designation are faculty committed to the humanistic teaching of the medical school curriculum. They love to teach and they enjoy working with emerging physicians.

Can you identify the Courage to Teach faculty member from the description on the following slides?
His philosophy of life includes the idea that we have to accept life for what it is and then live our lives to the fullest.

His family is central to his personal and professional well being and he wishes that everyone could have a loving and caring family to support them.

As a boy, he had a chemistry lab in his basement. (He had very tolerant parents.)

He has an MD and a PhD.

Keep reading to find out who has the “Courage to Teach” ...
★ He loves to read, can often be found roaming around an art gallery, listens to classical music and loves to travel.

★ He was selected as Professor of the Year (hint: in 2003) and credits his many mentors/teachers for his success.

★ He is passionate about teaching medical students and encourages the “food for thought” approach to teaching.

★ He is the only person at OSUMC (that we know of!) to have a sandwich named after him!

Keep reading to find out who has the “Courage to Teach” ...
Courage to Teach

Charles Hitchcock, MD, PhD
Department of Pathology
Vice Chair for Education