Articulate Studio

Doug Danforth

February 9, 2011

Background/Purpose of the Technology
Articulate Studio is a plug in module for Power Point that allows users to create interactive eLearning Modules that can be accessed from any Flash compatible browser.

Where to locate:
Articulate web site: http://www.articulate.com/
Articulate samples: http://www.articulate.com/community/showcase/

First steps in using: (How-to)
Describe how to get access to the technology/product
A free 30-day trial of Articulate Studio can be downloaded from http://www.articulate.com/. The Center for Knowledge Management has a limited number of laptops with the software installed available for loan.

How to use it (for example, what buttons to push, how to navigate the site, how to invite people to participate)
Articulate works as a Power point plug in, similar to Turning Point. Once Articulate is installed, then click on the Articulate Tab in ppt. From there you can record narration, add media, create quizzes, and add interactions.

Suggestions for easy ways to start
Watch these instructional videos

Proof of Principle
I am creating self-study eLearning Modules for the Lead, Serve, Inspire, Curriculum using Articulate. The goal is to create resources for the students to learn basic facts and concepts on their own so we can use in class time for applying basic concepts in clinical contexts.